

KITHKIN PRESENTS

@DESIGNERS BLOCK

Featuring over twelve designers from some of the most prestigious universities in London, KithKin Presents is a unique journey into the tastes and influences of two young design graduates. It is a selection from their friends and colleagues, work that has influenced and excited them throughout the last few months.

Curated by Ian Atkins and Joss Debae, KithKin Presents has been organized to show people conceptual design at its most fun, dangerous and at times even impractical.

The work on show has been forged by imaginative minds, the results are objects that we hope will touch you on an emotive level, bringing a smile or frown to your face, leaving you pondering what if and why not?

This is an exhibition from humble beginnings, put together on shoestring, organized communally, featuring several young designers and made possible by friendship, favours and passion.

KithKin is a collective of artists and designers forged together through a desire to explore creativity, it is dedicated to working, learning and expressing ideas in a environment rich in collaboration and free from boundaries.
